> PROSPECTUS OF THE MOUNTAIN BANNER.

TAHE Subscriber having become sole Editor and Proprietor of the Mountain Banner, will continue its publication in the village of Rutherfordton, N. C.

The Editor is a Democrat, but owes no allegiance to any party further than its measures are calculated to note the good of the country : and treth, justice, and fair dealing will be the three cardinal principles by which he will be guided in his editorial course. The honest masses of the people, no matter how they may differ with him in opinion, will ever command his respect; and reason and argument shall be the only weapons with which they are assailed by him. Abusive tirades and opprobrious epithets are as foreign to his disposition as they are useless and unbecoming; and nothing of the kind will be indelged in towards political opponents; and while he zealously advocates the principles which he thinks conducive to the welfare of the country, he will do so with due respect to those who differ with him in opinion, making it his constant endeavor to maintain a high and respectful tone.

Free Suffrage, and other salutary reforms will be urged with all the ability of the Editor; and all judicious schemes of Internal Improvements will find in him a zealous advocate. On the Slavery question, the Banner will be true to the South, contending for equal rights and a strict construction of the Constitution. But the BANNER will not be wholly devoted to politics. Agriculture, News, scientific Discoveries and Improvements, useful Receipts, and whatever will conduce to the amusement and instruction of the public, will receive due attention. Tales, Poems, Essays, Sketches, &c. will make up a choice variety in which every one may find something to please and instruct Care will also be taken to collect the incidents that COTTON YARN AND SEINE TWINE may transpire throughout the country. This is a feature too much neglected by the country Press in general, and one that cannot fail to prove highly interesting.
